

Lee Sinje pregnant with twin boys

MAJOR Chinese dailies reported that Malaysian singer-actress Lee Sinje (pic) was carrying a pair of twin boys.

Sin Chew Daily reported she made the announcement at a charity movie screening event organised by her Little Yellow Flower Foundation in Kuala Lumpur on Saturday.

"I'm very happy to be able to attend this meaningful event with my two babies today, giving is better than receiving and I think this is the best pre-natal education for them," she said.

She revealed she would be giving birth in Malaysia and that her husband, film director Oxide Pang, would be here to accompany her.

> Ten stones on display at a temple in Sungai Besar, Selangor, purportedly spin when someone steps on them, Sin Chew Daily reported.

The stones were collected by the Ling Shi Gong Temple from jungles in China, Thailand, Taiwan and Malaysia, it reported.

Temple chairman Li Qiu Shui said about 300 people had tried to step on the stones and 70% of them could feel the stones spinning.

"Some people could feel the stones spinning very fast, but others said the spin was very slow.

"There are also people who wanted to throw up after stepping on the stones. We believe that people will have peace of mind after stepping on the stones," Li said.

However, Li said certain people such as pregnant women were advised not to step on the stones.

> Hong Kong artiste Nicholas Tse and his ex-wife Cecilia Cheung refuted a report that their youngest son refused to meet Tse, reported Guang Ming Daily.

Tse and Cheung issued a joint statement urging the media not to make false reports which would hurt the feelings of their children –

Lucas, eight, and Quintus, five.

They added that they had always arranged family gatherings with the children and had tried very hard to protect them.
